SEGUNDA EDICIÓN

Investing in rural people

“Indigenous peoples have the right to the full enjoyment, as a collective or as individuals, of all human rights and fundamental freedoms as recognized in the Charter of the United Nations, the Universal Declaration of Human Rights and international human rights law.”

Article 1 of the United Nations Declaration on the Rights of Indigenous Peoples

“Les peuples autochtones ont le droit, à titre collectif ou individuel, de jouir pleinement de l’ensemble des droits de l’homme et des libertés fondamentales reconnus par la Charte des Nations Unies, la Déclaration universelle des droits de l’homme et le droit international relatif aux droits de l’homme.”

Article 1 de la Déclaration des Nations Unies sur les droits des peuples autochtones

“Los indígenas tienen derecho, como pueblos o como individuos, al disfrute pleno de todos los derechos humanos y las libertades fundamentales reconocidos en la Carta de las Naciones Unidas, la Declaración Universal de Derechos Humanos y las normas internacionales de derechos humanos.”

Artículo 1 de la Declaración de las Naciones Unidas sobre los derechos de los pueblos indígenas

Foreword

Since IFAD started operations in 1978, indigenous peoples living in the rural areas of developing countries have been an explicit target group of the projects and programmes that the Fund supports. In working with indigenous peoples, IFAD has learned the importance of recognizing the diversity and distinctiveness of indigenous communities and of valuing their cultural identity as important assets with economic potential.

Across countries and continents, many terms and definitions are used to refer to indigenous peoples, for example: Natives, First Nations, tribes, ethnic minorities, indigenous nationalities and aboriginals. The 2007 United Nations Declaration on the Rights of Indigenous Peoples did not adopt a universal definition. Nevertheless, while the prevailing view today is that no such formal definition is necessary for the recognition of indigenous peoples' rights, in practice there is a large degree of convergence among international agencies.

This second edition includes new terms that are emerging from most recent IFAD's publications and other recent sources related to Indigenous Peoples. As in the previous edition, it has been developed jointly by specialized staff in the Office of the Secretary (Language Services) and the Indigenous Peoples Desk in the Environment, Climate, Gender and Social Inclusion Division. The purpose of this glossary is to ensure consistency and accuracy of terminology in English, French and Spanish, and standardize the terminology used in relation to indigenous peoples in official documentation and publications, and in all aspects of meeting preparations. It is intended for use by IFAD staff, indigenous peoples' organizations and other interested parties. Terms and definitions are accompanied by details of the source document and its date of publication.

The full glossary is composed of 195 terms and listed in alphabetical order.

Annex I contains quick-reference list of terms to facilitate the work of interpreters.

Annex II provides a list of indigenous peoples' organizations in alphabetical order, and equivalents in French and Spanish.

The glossary is a living document. We look forward to receiving feedback and contributions for future editions to further enrich the collection. Your suggestions can be sent to b.couto@ifad.org.

Avant-propos

Depuis 1978, date à laquelle les opérations du FIDA ont débuté, les peuples autochtones vivant dans les zones rurales du monde en développement font explicitement partie des groupes auxquels s'adressent les projets et programmes appuyés par le Fonds. Sur la base de l'expérience acquise aux côtés des peuples autochtones, le FIDA sait combien il est important de reconnaître la diversité et les spécificités des communautés autochtones et de valoriser leur identité culturelle, autant d'atouts majeurs dotés d'un potentiel économique.

Lorsque l'on parle de peuples autochtones, les définitions et termes utilisés sont nombreux et varient d'un pays et d'un continent à l'autre: indigènes, Premières Nations, tribus, minorités ethniques, nationalités autochtones et aborigènes. La Déclaration des Nations Unies sur les droits des peuples autochtones de 2007 n'a pas adopté de définition universelle. S'il est communément admis qu'une définition officielle n'est pas nécessaire pour reconnaître les droits des peuples autochtones, on note néanmoins dans la pratique une grande convergence entre les institutions internationales.

Cette deuxième édition présente de nouveaux termes qui sont apparus dans les dernières publications du FIDA et autres sources récentes liés aux peuples autochtones. Comme la précédente, la présente édition est le fruit des efforts conjoints déployés par le personnel spécialisé au sein du Bureau du Secrétaire (Services linguistiques) et par le Service des peuples autochtones au sein de la Division environnement, climat, égalité hommes-femmes et inclusion sociale. Le but de ce glossaire est de garantir la cohérence et la précision de la terminologie relative aux peuples autochtones, et ce en anglais, en espagnol et en français, et d'uniformiser cette terminologie dans les documents officiels ainsi que dans tout ce qui a trait à l'organisation de réunions. Il a été établi à l'intention du personnel du FIDA, des organisations des peuples autochtones et d'autres parties concernées. À côté de chaque terme, on trouvera le document source et sa date de publication.

Le glossaire complet, soit 195 termes, se présente par ordre alphabétique.

L'annexe I propose une liste de référence rapide des termes, destinée à faciliter la tâche des interprètes.

L'annexe II contient une liste des organisations des peuples autochtones par ordre alphabétique, et leurs équivalences en français et en espagnol.

Le glossaire est un document évolutif. Nous comptons sur des retours d'information et des contributions qui viendront enrichir les éditions futures. Vous pouvez adresser vos suggestions à b.couto@ifad.org.

Prefacio

Desde que el FIDA inició sus actividades, en 1978, los pueblos indígenas que viven en las zonas rurales de los países en desarrollo han figurado expresamente entre los grupos objetivo de los proyectos y programas que cuentan con su apoyo. Al trabajar con pueblos indígenas, el FIDA ha comprendido la importancia de reconocer la diversidad y los rasgos distintivos de las comunidades indígenas y de valorar su identidad cultural como un activo importante con potencial económico.

En los diferentes países y continentes se utilizan múltiples términos y definiciones para referirse a los pueblos indígenas, por ejemplo: nativos, primeras naciones, tribus, minorías étnicas, nacionalidades indígenas o aborígenes. En la Declaración de las Naciones Unidas sobre los Derechos de los Pueblos Indígenas, de 2007, no se adoptó una definición universal. Si bien actualmente la opinión imperante es que tal definición oficial no es necesaria para el reconocimiento de los derechos de los pueblos indígenas, en la práctica los organismos internacionales tienden a emplear una terminología similar.

Esta segunda edición incluye nuevos términos que se han utilizado en las publicaciones más recientes del FIDA y en otras fuentes relacionadas con los pueblos indígenas. Al igual que en la primera edición, ha sido preparada conjuntamente por personal especializado de la Oficina del Secretario (Servicios Lingüísticos) y por la Sección encargada de las cuestiones relativas a los pueblos indígenas en la División de Medio Ambiente, Clima, Género e Inclusión Social. La finalidad de este glosario es asegurar la coherencia y la exactitud de la terminología en español, francés e inglés, así como normalizar la terminología en materia de pueblos indígenas que se emplea en la documentación y las publicaciones oficiales, y en todos los aspectos relativos a la preparación de reuniones. Sus destinatarios son el personal del FIDA, las organizaciones de pueblos indígenas y otras partes interesadas. Los términos y las definiciones van acompañados de información sobre el documento de origen y su fecha de publicación.

El glosario completo está compuesto por 195 términos y organizado por orden alfabético.

El anexo I contiene una lista de términos de consulta rápida, para facilitar la labor de los intérpretes.

El anexo II incluye una lista de organizaciones de pueblos indígenas en orden alfabético y sus equivalentes en español y francés.

El glosario es un documento abierto, sujeto a cambios. Esperamos con interés recibir comentarios y aportaciones para las próximas ediciones, a fin de seguir enriqueciendo la colección. Puede enviar sus sugerencias a: b.couto@ifad.org.

Note: Incluye regímenes de propiedad basados expresamente en leyes consuetudinarias, así como aquellos donde la legislación nacional sobre propiedad colectiva no está basada en leyes consuetudinarias. Por tanto, este término engloba un abanico de escenarios más amplio que los definidos por 'tierras indígenas o comunitarias'; incluye por ejemplo regímenes más modernos como los bosques colectivos en China, que no derivan exclusivamente de la tradición. Desde una perspectiva analítica, esta es la manera más correcta de identificar y hacer seguimiento de un amplio espectro de comunidades de distintas jurisdicciones, que reflejan contextos políticos, culturales e históricos diversos. Este informe se centra, no obstante, en los derechos de los pueblos y comunidades que tienen una fuerte relación consuetudinaria con sus tierras. Note: Cela inclut à la fois les régimes fonciers expressément fondés sur le droit coutumier et ceux dont le fondement juridique de la propriété partagée des ressources naturelles ne repose pas sur le droit coutumier. Ce terme recouvre donc une palette de situations plus large que celles définies par le concept de « terres autochtones et communautaires » et inclut des régimes plus récents tels que la sylviculture par collectifs en Chine, qui ne découlent pas exclusivement des coutumes. D'un point de vue analytique, il s'agit du moyen le plus adapté pour suivre une grande variété de communautés de différents pays, reflétant une multitude de contextes politiques, culturels et historiques. Toutefois, le présent rapport s'intéresse en priorité aux droits des peuples et des communautés nourrissant un lien coutumier fort avec leurs terres. Terres communes: Sécuriser les droits fonciers et protéger la planète, Land Rights Now/ILC/OXFAM/IRRI, 2016.

Note: Community-driven development ensures ownership, commitment and sustainability of investments, and increases self-reliance and community empowerment. In working with indigenous peoples, IFAD will follow and enhance community-driven development approaches that are particularly well suited to the holistic perspectives of indigenous peoples, where ecosystems and social and economic systems are intertwined.

It was first mentioned in the Copenhagen Accord in 2009 and was formally established one year later during the COP 16 held in Cancun, Mexico. In 2011 the GCF adopted its governing instrument, in which it recognized its objective to 'promote the paradigm shift towards low emission and climate-resilient development pathways by providing support to developing countries to limit or reduce their greenhouse gas emissions and to adapt to the impacts of climate change'. Adopted as an operating entity of the Financial Mechanism of the UNFCCC and confirmed in this function for the Paris Agreement, the fund has the ambition to channel a significant portion of future climate finance from both the public and private sector.

Criteria for identification: IFAD uses a working definition of indigenous peoples based on the following criteria: priority in time, with respect to occupation and use of a specific territory; the voluntary perpetuation of cultural distinctiveness, which may include the aspects of language, social organization, religion and spiritual values, modes of production, laws and institutions; self-identification, as well as recognition by other groups, or by state authorities, as a distinct collectivity; and an experience of subjugation, marginalization, dispossession, exclusion or discrimination.

Source: IFAD Policy on Engagement with Indigenous Peoples, IFAD, 2009.

Note: The 2007 United Nations Declaration on the Rights of Indigenous Peoples has not adopted a universal definition.

While the prevailing view today is that no formal universal definition is necessary for the recognition of indigenous peoples' rights, there is in practice a large degree of convergence among international agencies.: Across countries and continents, many terms and definitions are used to refer to indigenous peoples (Natives, First Nations, tribes, ethnic minorities, indigenous nationalities, aboriginals, indigenous communities, pueblos originarios (Bolivia), adapt communities (Indonesia), scheduled tribes (India), hill peoples, highland peoples (Cambodia), etc.). In Africa in recent years, progress has been made by the African Union in acknowledging and addressing the particular forms of discrimination facing ethnic minorities and other marginalized groups who identify themselves as indigenous peoples (The full Report of the African Commission's Working Group of Experts on Indigenous Populations/Communities is available at:
